Guiding Philosophy

How we learn, experience and respond to health issues personally and professionally shapes the workforce we produce, the experiences of those we care for and ultimately the communities in which we live.

Nursing must contribute as well as respond to social, political and strategic drivers in society.

…where does Compassion in Practice strategy and 6Cs fit with this?....
“Mid Staffs”
Compassion in Practice

- Launched by Jane Cummings and Viv Bennett in 2012
- The 3 year strategy which outlines the Nursing and midwifery commitments to care improvement/quality.
- Has 6 action areas involving DH, PHE, NHS Employers and HEE
- Sets out clear, measurable activities and actions that nurses, midwives and other care providers will engage with to ensure high quality compassionate care
Key Principles

- Health as a positive resource and life long process

- People we care for as active/informed partners in planning, delivery and evaluation of care

- Inter and intra disciplinary professional approach

- Striving for sustained and accountable improvements in nursing and midwifery practice, policy, education
Action Areas

Action Area 1: Helping people to stay independent, maximising well-being and improving health

Action Area 2: Working with people to provide a positive experience of care

Action Area 3: Delivering high quality care and measuring impact

Action Area 4: Building and strengthening leadership

Action Area 5: Ensuring we have the right staff, with the right skills, in the right place

Action Area 6: Supporting positive staff experience
6Cs

- 6Cs are the values and behaviours that underpin Compassion in Practice strategy
- Linked with notions of ‘intentional kindness’
- Developed into a social movement

“A type of group action. Large, sometimes informal groupings of individuals and organisational which focus on specific political or social issues. They carry out, resist or undo social change”
6Cs: Values essential to compassionate care

‘Culture of Care’ Barometer
Compassion in Practice strategy and 6Cs in Nursing

In essence, together they signify “a call to action”

“Maximising nurses’ and midwives’ contributions to high quality compassionate care and excellent health and wellbeing for people in their local communities”
DRAW THE LINE
RAISING CONCERNS
TOGETHER WE CAN MAKE A DIFFERENCE
Breaking ‘bad’

- Continuously striving for NHS as an environment which engenders compassion for those who use NHS services and those work for us

  What does that look like?
  How do we achieve it?

- The Art and Science of our professions find a meeting place in our ‘professionalism’
- Values are part of our character, not simply bound in our duties. Compassion cannot thrive when there is a dissonance between the two
Advancing professionalism….through ‘social movement’

• Involves more than ‘social media’…………whole system approach…..Five Year Forward View

• Contemporary healthcare education should include creativity, science and innovation

• As practitioners we should contribute to and use the science and art of our profession as a legitimate part of our role wherever we practice

• Professional currency and interprofessional credibility

• Local, national and international perspectives

• Health systems and policies should ensure that the environments in which compassion in practice and for practitioners may embed and flourish are in place
Developing the next stage

Future forward......what next?

• Year 3 of strategy: Now it’s time to reflect, discuss and plan

  “How was/is it for you?”

• What does Compassion in Practice/6Cs/leadership look like where YOU are? How have YOU contributed?

  “How could/should it be?”

• What should the plan to drive our values look like post 2015?

Dare to be Different

“I have an almost complete disregard of precedent, and a faith in the possibility of something better. It irritates me to be told how things have always been done. I defy the tyranny of precedent. I go for anything new that might improve the past….. I cannot afford the luxury of a closed mind”

— Clara Barton, The Story Of My Childhood
